

Industrial Relations – What to expect?

Q&A Panel

Australian Public Transport Industrial Association
MOVING PEOPLE

Presentation by: Ian MacDonald

Bus Australia Network

What happened in 2019?

- Well, the ALP didn't win the election - no living wage; no definition for casual employment; no return to penalty rates or the RSRT and no abolition of the RoC or the ABCC and no greater powers for Unions.
- The 4 Yearly review of modern awards i.e. the review of the PVTAs is all but over.

What happened in 2019?

- Skene's case, Mondelez's case and OneKey case have begun to haunt us.
- Ensuring integrity, proper use of workers benefits, wage theft, industrial manslaughter, portable long service leave and enterprise bargaining are the catch phrases.

Our Panel

Was the election of Scomo a good thing for business or do you think that some of Shorten's IR policies might have worked okay for business?

The bargaining system - Is it broken? What do you think of the New Zealand system which relies heavily on Union involvement and fees for bargaining?

www.gettyimages.com - L34621000

What are the likely outcomes for our industry from Skene and Mondelez?

Is it likely that we will be able to employ into the future casuals to undertake our school services and our charter work?

You are Prime Minister for a day and can pass whatever IR legislation that you want - you have the numbers in both houses. What would it be?

